DEVOTED TO THE INTERESTS AND UPBUILDING OF ALBANY-DECATUR, ALABAMA

VOLUME XIII

ALBANY, ALABAMA, FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 4, 1925

NUMBER 156

WASHINGTON, Sept. 4.—Alabama: Fair tonight and Saturday. Gentle variable winds.

WRECKED DIRIGIBLE IS LOOTED BY THE CROWDS

DIRECTORS CHOSEN TO MAP OUT PLANS TO 'SELL' ALABAMA

Willingham Elected As Representative From Eighth District

STATE WILL BE ADVERTISED

Organization Formed To Initiate Move To Broadcast Resources

H. J. Willingham, of Florence is the eighth district member of the board of directors, who will meet immediately to map out a plan for thoroughly advertising the resources of Alabama.

Other directors elected included: First district, Wallace J. Parkham, Jr.; Mobile, second district, Jesse B. Hearn, Montgomery; third district, J. E. Z. Riley, Ozark; fourth district, B. W. Pruet, Anniston; fifth district, H. S. Oster, Prattville; sixth district, E. F. Allison, Bellamy; seventh district, O. G. Agricola, Gadsden; ninth district, G. G. Crawford, Birmingham; tenth district, H. P. Gibson, Jasper.

The meeting was arranged at the request of President McLendon of the Alabama Press Association, and resulted in the permanent organization to broadcast to the world the natural resources of his state.

The meeting requested the board of directors to name George Gordon Crawford, of Birmingham, as chairman of the board.

Constitution and by-laws setting out the purpose of the organization and providing for its permanent organization and activities were adopted, but the document left to the discretion of the board of directors practically all the vital matters of closer organization.

The net result of the meeting was the declaration of belief in the future prosperity of the state; the announced purpose of raising funds and finding most effective means of advertising the state; the requesting of all departments of state, all private agencies, and all citizens to co-operate with the movement; and the election of the board of directors.

Resolutions adopted commended the press of the state for its efforts to advertise the state, felicitated the state board of agriculture in its work and its declaration of support to the movement undertaken today, recommended the more extensive use of "made in Alabama" products, recommended that the advertising agencies and mediums now at the command of the state be used by the committee in advertising the state, and declared it the belief of the convention that policies and the method of raising funds be left to the board of directors.

J. C. McLendon, president of the State Press association, presided at the meeting. Gov. W. W. Brandon welcomed the men in the name of the state. He praised the good roads program extensively, declared that more roads would yet be built, and divided his praise for the road system with that of the schools.

Home Oil Mill Is Working Two Crews

With probably one of the heaviest cotton seasons ever seen in this section, the Home Oil Mill is employing two crews of men daily, for work on day and night shifts. The mill reported that 76 bales of cotton were ginned Thursday with the prospect that a higher mark would be reached today.

Albany Station Greatly Improved

Crews of workmen have just completed repainting and repairing the Louisville and Nashville station at Albany, making the station very comfortable for patrons. Milton Andrews, popular ticket agent, invites the inspection of the public.

Governors Clash Over Bridge

GOVERNOR PINCHOT

GOVERNOR SILZER

What the Governor of North Carolina said to the chief executive of South Carolina is something else to the verbal passages between Gov. Silzer, of New Jersey, and Gov. Pinchot, of Pennsylvania. The former wants to charge tolls on the interstate bridge, while the Keystone executive insists there must be no charge for the use of the span and tunnel.

NOTED LEADERS TO BE HEARD LOCALLY WEST LAFAYETTE PEOPLE ASK STREET

Bensons Will Sing At The Saturday And Sunday Event

Prof. S. M. Benson of Cullman and Prof. T. J. Benson of Tennessee, will be at the Morgan County courthouse Saturday and Sunday for the Sacred Harp singing, it became known today. Both are noted singers and leaders and their fame has spread over all areas in which they are Sacred Harp Singers.

Final touches were given today to the plans for the singing, which is expected to attract the largest crowd of any of the series here. The program will begin Saturday morning and continue through Sunday. Picnic lunch will be spread on the courthouse lawn each day at noon.

Attention was called today to the fact that the people of Albany and Decatur, whether Sacred Harp singers or not, have been extended a cordial invitation to attend the event and it is likely that several hundred will take advantage of the opportunity.

Two Mad Dogs Are Killed By Officers

Two dogs said to have been "mad" were killed early today by officers Hendrix and McCall of the Albany police. Three other dogs were killed when it was said that the animals had been bitten by those thought to have been suffering with rabies. The officers of both cities are attempting to safeguard the lives of children and grown-ups by doing away with all stray dogs.

150 Persons Killed In Blast, Report

(Associated Press)
TOKIO, Sept. 4.—One hundred and fifty persons were killed in an explosion at the Peihaku coal mines near Pingyang, dispatches to newspapers here today said.

Dog Bites Are Now Favorite Topic Of City Conversation

"Have you had your morning bite," can be heard as an introductory phrase to any conversation among the children of the Twin Cities these days. Thursday afternoon a very heated debate was being carried on at the Y. M. C. A. by three small boys who had suffered the infliction of "mad dog tucks." The boys discussed the events leading up to their taking one pasteur treatment, guarding against the danger of rabies and concluded that there was little difference between the pain and the cure. The boys were the victims of a dog suffering from rabies which ran pell mell through the south section of Albany last Saturday and Sunday.

HEAT NEXT HIGHEST OF WHOLE YEAR AS 102 IS RECORDED

Man At Shops Is Declared To Have Been Overcome

ONLY ONE DAY WAS WARMER

No Relief In Wave Seems To Be Near, Say Reports

Heat records for the Twin Cities showed 102 today, according to registration at the government observatory. Mrs. A. H. Irons, official government observer, declared that Thursday high heat marks reached 100. One other day in the year was higher. In June the thermometer raced to 103 as the cities sweltered.

Unusual angles of the day's heat record were told today when Jake Couch, west Albany resident, reported that a thermometer on the north side of his home registered 104 at noon. Warm waves rushing from the paved streets in the cities caused pedestrians considerable discomfort.

It was rumored that an employee of the forge department at the Louisville and Nashville shops had to be removed from his work Thursday owing to the intense heat of the day. This report, however, could not be confirmed at the offices of the local shops.

The drought continues without abatement in all sections of the county, the only bright side being seen in the early ginning of cotton. Cotton wagons can be seen on all highways leading to these cities and local ginning figures are expected to reach the highest record in years. Local gins are all reporting record runs thus far, the Home Oil Mill being slightly in the lead with 76 bales for Thursday. Other crops are badly burned, according to agriculturists in this section and the yield of some of the major crops will be greatly cut. In some sections of the state rain cannot help, it being too late to aid the dry conditions.

A single June day is recorded as being warmer than is today. One June noon registered 103 while the highest heat record for the entire nation stands at 106, at Phoenix, Arizona.

Local people sweltered in the heat of the day going about early fall activities despite the discomforts incurred. Drivers of automobiles complained of the heavy heat waves rushing through windshields and burning the eyes. In a joking manner numbers of pedestrians claimed that the thermometer if placed on Bank street and Second Avenue would register nearer 120 than 102.

Weather predictions offer little relief from the continued heat wave.

Efforts To Pet Snake Costs Life

(Associated Press)

TULSA, Okla., Sept. 4.—Efforts of F. L. Tuttle, 19, to make a pet of a rattlesnake, cost him his life. He caught the snake in a cotton field and stroked it gently. The reptile became docile. Several hours later the boy screamed as he threw the snake from him.

The rattler landed in a coil and sprang instantly, sinking its fangs into the boy's face. He died five hours later.

Veteran Dies From Effects Of Beating

(Associated Press)

SCOTTSBORO, Ala., Sept. 4.—Preston Smith, Confederate soldier is dead from effects of a beating given him sometime ago by alleged moonshiners, who suspected him of being an informer.

A doctor's certificate said a broken hip punctured one of the man's lungs, causing death.

FREQUENT VISITOR TO CITIES WAS ABOARD GIANT SHENANDOAH

Wires Local People That He Is Safe After Crash

HAD EXPECTED TO VISIT HERE

Hendley Talks To The Kiwanis Club At Cambridge

Lieutenant T. B. Hendley, Columbia, Tenn., who was aboard the ill-fated dirigible Shenandoah when it crashed killing fourteen officers and men, after hitting a line squall early Thursday morning, is safe, according to information received here today by relatives. Lieutenant Hendley is a brother-in-law of Mrs. W. R. Shelton, R. T. and E. T. Sheppard of this city.

Mrs. Hendley who is visiting relatives at Columbia, Tenn., advised today that soon after the crash near Caldwell, Ohio she received a message from her husband stating that he was safe and that there was no cause for worry.

Lieutenant Hendley was made chief engineer of the Shenandoah sometime ago and upon the deaths of Commander Landsdowne and Lieut. Commander Louis Nancock of Austin, Texas, Hendley automatically became the ranking officer. He spoke briefly of the disaster at Cambridge, Ohio on Thursday night where the survivors of the wreck were guests of the Kiwanis club of that city.

According to a story sent by the Associated Press none of the survivors talked of the wreck of the giant craft. Lieutenant Hendley spoke briefly at the dinner, saying, "Gentlemen, you have helped to lift a burden from our hearts. I cannot talk about the Shenandoah and only want to thank you for what you have done for us." Hendley sat down, the account says, his eyes filled with tears.

Lieutenant Hendley and family were the expected guests of relatives here during the coming week, but owing to the events it is not known whether he will come south or remain in the east to attend the probe which will be instituted by government authorities.

Hendley is a graduate of the United States Naval Academy only recently having entered the "lighter than air" branch of the service and has been stationed at Lakehurst some months.

New Prohibition Unit Is Created

(Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 4.—The treasury took another step today in its campaign against liquor smuggling from Canada by authorizing Collector Ferguson at Detroit to establish a new unit of enforcement to control about 100 miles of the northern border with Detroit as the center.

YOUR LIST of stocks will contain many minus signs. The coal strike has frightened speculators and like the miners, Wall street profits are taking a temporary vacation.

However, those that now sell anything representing REAL value will feel foolish a little after. There could be no worse time than this to sell anything in the United States that is worth having.

THE State of New York pities itself because it pays $500,000,000 income tax, almost a third of the entire national tax.

New Yorkers shouldn't forget that if they pay $500,000,000 it is because forthly seven other states send all their wealth to New York

Misses His Paper, "Kicks" By Cable

In the course of handling several thousand copies of a newspaper, day in and day out, it is natural that subscribers occasionally should miss a copy of their Daily. Most of these very promptly advise the office by telephone, by mail or by person, in order that the mistake may be rectified.

Loyal C. Biggs, former resident, and now living in Havana, Cuba, however, startled the office today by filing a cablegram, advising the office that he has been missing his Daily.

Mr. Biggs removed to Havana some years ago, and has been keeping tab on local events through the columns of The Daily.

DECATUR CREAMERY ADDS TO EQUIPMENT

Machine Is Purchased For Pasteurization By New Method

The Decatur Ice Cream and Creamery company has purchased new equipment which will enable it to handle Grade A pasteurized milk, in accordance with the latest specifications and recommendations of the Alabama board of health.

The total cost of the improvements is not yet known only one machine having been purchased up to date, at a cost of $130. Other machines probably will be added a little later.

The machine is recommended by the Alabama board of health, and also is being adopted by health agencies in other states, it having proved a great success. The equipment enables the plant to pasteurize the milk by a modern method. The company will be able to supply Grade A pasteurized milk for the wholesale and retail trade and, according to J. W. Cloyton, manager, will use pasteurized milk, treated in the new machine, in all of its ice cream products as well.

PROBE OF TRAGEDY IMPEDED BY THEFT OF PARTS OF SHIP

Some Of Motors Even Are Taken By The Curious Throgs

BROTHER OF DEAD LEADER ARRIVES

Lansdowne's Body May Be Laid To Rest In Arlington

(Associated Press)

CALDWELL, O., Sept. 4.—Commodore J. H. Klein, S. M. Kraus and William Nelson of the United States naval air station at Lakehurst, N. J., were conducting an official inquiry here and at Belle Valley today into the wreck of the dirigible Shenandoah which fell near Ava yesterday morning killing 14 members of its crew.

Progress of the investigation was greatly impeded as a result of the looting that prevailed yesterday and into the night. Loss of the ship's logbook by theft and the theft of the controls and some of the motors was greatly deplored.

J. R. Lansdowne, of Cincinnati, O., brother of the dead commander arrived here this morning and talked to naval officers. No decision has been made as to disposition of the body. It was considered probable, however, it would be taken to Arlington and buried.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 4.—The breaking of a gas bag over power car number three, the aft starboard car of the dirigible Shenandoah, was blamed by some of the survivors for the wreck yesterday in Ohio.

When the 18 survivors, who came by special car from the scene of the wreck, enroute to their home station, arrived at Philadelphia at 7:50 a. m. today, some of them agreed this accident, in conjunction with the terrific storm, was responsible for the wreck and its ensuing loss of life.

The storm was described by the survivors as a "western twister," a miniature cyclone. Some of the men said they had been able to see the storm coming but the ship had been unable to get out of its way.

The men trooped from the train at the North Philadelphia station to take another train to Lakehurst. All of them were carrying heavy bags.

"Are they your effects?" someone asked one of the men, pointing to the bags.

"No," he said, "they are the things that belonged to our comrades who are dead."

Richardson Wilson, of Louisville, Ky., a seaman second class, listed yesterday as injured, was among the survivors, unhurt.

The eighteen men who came here were in charge of Lieutenant T. B. Hendley. They were stiff and sore from the leaps they had made from the airship as it neared the ground. They were grimy and tired. Few slept, either last night or at any time yesterday.

A number of them described how they clung to the outer envelope and the frame work and worked their way from the top of the airship, almost one hundred feet, to a hand-hold near the bottom, where they were able, when the broken sections of the airship dropped near the ground, to let go and drop 10 or 15 feet to safety.

"We had to run for our lives," Wilson said, "because the portion of the bag in which we were was ripping, sagging and twisting side to side."

Several members of the party said that not only did the control car fall but that numbers four and five power cars fell a few minutes later.

Wilson said the control car must have dropped off when the dirigible was 2,000 feet in the air. He added he was awakened by the rolling of the Shenandoah.

He said the ship seemed to plunge down 1,000 feet or so. It was a swift, long descent. Then instantly it was jerked up at an angle of about 45 degrees to an altitude of 5,000 to 6,000 feet.

"That was when I heard the crash," (Continued on page three.)

LET YOUR CONSCIENCE RULE YOUR BODY

Most of the Physical Ills Are Due to Neglect, Bad Eating and a Rundown Condition Resulting from Wrong Habits of Life.

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.,
United States Senator from New York.
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

I WAS up to Madison, Wisconsin, to attend the funeral of Senator LaFollette. On the train coming home we stopped for a few minutes at a station where lunch was served. I had a sandwich and a piece of excellent apple pie. The middle-aged man who served me said the price was twenty-five cents and I laid down thirty-five. Rather sharply he said, "You misunderstood me; the bill is twenty-five cents." He picked up the quarter, leaving the dime on the counter. "You intended that as a tip," I supposed. "I don't need it and won't take it. I get a regular salary for my work and am in no need of extra money," I felt rebuked. You must confess the circumstances were unusual. Even now I feel it would have been more tactful for the man to take the money, and since he had no use for it to give it to some needy person.

DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

But that man has an alert and ever watchful conscience. What ever he undertakes, I have no doubt he does with all his heart and soul, with an eye single to his duty.

I am sorry the train whistle blew so soon. I wish I could have found out how the man takes care of his body and health. If he is so conscientious in money and business matters, it should follow as a matter of course that he takes care of the temple of his body which has been given him to minister to during his earthly career.

It is too frequently the case that a man who is extremely devoted to business, or to the interests of his employer, is recklessly neglectful of his own health. This is a foolish division of duty. You owe just as much to yourself as you do to your employer. You owe him loyalty, untiring service, honest hours and faithful attention to his interests. But you owe yourself abundance of rest, sleep, recreation, good food, decent clothes and a respectable home.

A man who willfully neglects to care for his health is just as sinful, as I see it, as the man who neglects the work he is paid to do. If a parent neglects the health of his child, or a doctor exposes others to disease, he can be arrested and held to court. In the last analysis, isn't a man just a culpable who neglects himself and takes a needless chance of getting disease? I don't know, of course, but my lunch-room man might think I'm crazy to hold such ideas. Then, again, he might endorse this view. Of one thing, at least, I am morally certain—he would have a positive opinion of some sort and wouldn't hesitate to express it.

Many of the diseases we have are traceable to neglect. Rheumatism and neuritis can be traced to bad teeth, tonsils or some other local disturbance. Colds and pneumonia are usually grafted on to a run down condition, plus undue exposure. Stomach and intestinal conditions are apt to have had eating as a cause. Tuberculosis is fos-

CONFERENCE CLOSES AT THE FIRST BAPTIST

Many People Attend
And Hear Number
Of Fine Talks

Under the auspices of the Alabama Baptist State convention a number of district conferences of Sunday school superintendents are being held throughout the state. The northern district conference met at the First Baptist church of Decatur this week in morning, afternoon and evening sessions. This district is composed of the following district associations: Sand Mountain, Madison-Liberty, Cedar Bluff, Muscle Shoals, Big Bear Creek, Shady Grove, Tennessee River, Colbert County, Lauderdale County, Limestone County, Cherokee County, Morgan County, Marshall County, DeKalb County, Franklin County, and Cullman County.

A roll call showed that many of these associations were represented, and the conference was both encouraging and helpful.

Superintendent G. C. Burke of Cullman county, spoke on, "Reaching Our Possibilities by Means of the Religious Census," and Dr. Allen S. Cutts, pastor of the First Baptist church at Athens, spoke on "Training Our Teachers." "Grading a Sunday School," was the subject of Mr. Robert Henderson of Lawrence county. Mr. Elton Johnson, a state Sunday school worker from Montgomery, delivered three addresses on, "How to Build a Standard Sunday School."

"The Qualifications of a Real Superintendent" were discussed by Superintendent J. C. Ford of Hartselle. Miss Arrie Moody of Montgomery, state elementary worker, spoke several times on elementary work, "The Duties of a Real Superintendent," and, "The Problems of a Real Superintendent."

Dr. L. L. Gwaltney, editor of the Alabama Baptist, was present and spoke on "The Main Thing" and "The Sunday School and the Alabama Baptist."

The evening session was made very interesting by moving pictures of Mentone, and a sermon by Dr. R. L. Motley, pastor of the First Baptist church of Florence, his subject being "Soul Winning in the Sunday School." The conference was presided over by W. P. Reeves, pastor of Central Baptist church, Albany.

Meals were served at 12:00 M. and 6:00 p.m., by the ladies of the First Church, Decatur, to all visitors, and others who would stay. And they were real meals too, not simply a sandwich and a cup of tea.

All the state workers expressed themselves as being highly pleased with the conference, and superintendents and teachers went back to make their Sunday schools better.

This conference is an annual affair, but it was not stated where the next one will be held.

Women Are Spared Much Suffering and Expense By G. F. P.

Women Are Saved From Operations—G. F. P. Relieves Quickly Where Other Methods Which Promise Relief Fail.

The popularity of St. Joseph's G. F. P. here and throughout the country seems to know no bounds because of the remarkable success it is having in overcoming and stamping out the dreaded disease—Catarrh—which has been proven to be the direct cause of most of women's ailments.

"I am not surprised at the rapid growth in popularity of G. F. P. in this territory," says the representative of the discoverers of this medicine, "because it has been received literally with open arms by thousands of girls and women wherever it has been introduced."

"I attribute this popularity to the quick way in which it acts on those women who are using it," she continued, "because when they see the amazing way in which it restores their vitality and strength and the speed with which it enables them to pick up in weight, nothing can keep them from praising it and telling their friends about this wonderful medicine."

Judging from the many statements being made publicly here endorsing G. F. P., it is a fact that hundreds of dollars are being saved by the women who are taking St. Joseph's G. F. P. Many cases are known where suggested operations have been found unnecessary and continued bills for medical services have been entirely done away with by the timely use of this wonderful medicine, which seems to invariably succeed in restoring health and vitality to those women who are using it consistently.

TO RID THE COUNTRY OF CRIME WE MUST HAVE MORE THAN ONE FORCE

An interesting editorial appeared in the Florence Daily Times of Tuesday on the subject of crime and the cures that must be sought in this country before the wild winds of folly are again displaced by the great American institution, the home.

The News, very much like the Literary Digest, takes a more or less pessimistic outlook on the American situation, but it does not seem that in a country so prosperous as ours that it is necessary to see the faults of our fellow-men so vividly.

The Florence editor made the following comment:

"The Literary Digest for this week carries quite a lengthy article under the caption, 'Church Warfare Against Crime.' The gist of the matter is that the church is being called upon from many sections to save the state from crime, which is rampant the country over.

"An especial plea has been made to the churches by the director of the Chicago Crime Commission, who alleges that police and law officers do not succeed in reducing crime. Allowances have to be made for the fact that his statement comes from Chicago, but it would seem that the same thing is largely true throughout the cities of the country. It would seem that unless law enforcement can be strengthened or the unenforceable laws on the statute books reduced in number, the church or some other agency must come to the rescue.

"The Chicago News calls upon the church to influence public opinion to the point of demanding that crime shall pay the prescribed penalty. The Catholic Witness alleges that here in America we have everything but religion in the hearts of the people. The Nashville Christian Advocate calls attention to the fact that an irreligious people will not be scrupulous about crime. A deeper and clearer conception of what crime is needs to be taught and dealt with, according to the Northwestern Christian Advocate. The Christian Intelligencer lays all the blame for present crime conditions to the lack of respect for and law enforcement.

"It would seem from the editorial comments quoted that every glimmer of hope for the lessening of crime lies either in the churches or the schools. That the law is throwing up its hands. That the old-fashioned religion of the home and fireside is considered a thing of the past.

"But are the laws and penalties of American home life discarded forever? And has family prayer and the admonition of old-fashioned parents been entirely abandoned? On the farms, if not in the cities, parents are showing their children the paths of rectitude and the farms are sending boys into the crime-ridden cities who have that innate sense of right and wrong which has mightily influenced American life in the past and will influence it again in the future. The need is for more men like the vision of Robert Burns, 'whose eye e'en turned on vacant space beamed keen with honor.'

"The whole trend of the Digest's article is discouraging, for it reflects a fact which thousands of men fear is only too true, namely, that the whole body politic, the parents included, are throwing up the sponge and looking to the churches and schools to reform everything and everybody. However powerful these institutions are, they can't do it without the help of that greatest of all institutions, the God-fearing American home.

"All of us have got to realize, and the sooner we do it the better, that the teaching of morality in the homes during the impressionable periods of childhood is not to be shunned and that the high-mindedness of our fathers is not a thing that can be instilled in the hearts of the youth of our land unless the traditions of the home play a part in it. The outside agencies help, but shall parents ever hope that high morality in their own offspring is a thing that can be legislated, preached or drilled in to the souls of children by school teachers?"

It is not the influence of the home, nor the influence of the church, the rigid enforcement of laws, or the teachings in schools that is going to finally stamp America as free from the wave of lawlessness. It is the combined force that will finally tell the story that America has turned from the path of the transgressor.

We do need more discipline in the American home, more of us need to attend church, law prevents children from staying from school, but there is nothing to throw up your hands over so long as the American government is functioning at Washington and the American people are giving thought to the enforcement of mandates. People are doing that now. It is not the good that we read of and hear about, it is the unusual side, the dark thing.

TAKING THE REST OUT OF ALABAMA IS A GOOD MOVE

For some weeks now an article telling the story of how Alabama came by the motto, "Here We Rest," has been chattering a daily desk. No writer attempted to use the material, though he felt that the subject should call for editorial comment. Just what angle the editorial should be written from bothered more than anything else. Proving that he who hesitates is bettered by the next one, the Anniston Star has grasped the situation and gives a very interesting view on the discovery that Alabama has no connection with the motto at all, that it means get up early and work late for yourself and your state. The Star says:

"Alabama does not mean 'Here We Rest.' That merely is the legendary meaning given to the name of this state. The old myth that in the Indian destroyed by Spain represented a people looked up the origin of the word Alabama and have found its literal translation to be 'Thicket Clearers.' This we are told by an Alabama woman writing about Alabama in the American Mercury.

This writer, Sara Haardt, of Montgomery, is the latest to dispel the illusion that Alabama is a place of 'Rest.'
"Much more appropriate as a motto for the state would be what is said to be the literal translation of the word Alabama into 'Thicket Clearers.' Early Alabamians, those hardy pioneers who laid the foundation for the present magnificent structure in statehood, literally were 'Thicket Clearers,' for they cut away the thickets and cleared the woodland areas to make room for the fertile farms and the teeming cities of the present Alabama, and they did not rest.

"Nor do the Alabamians idly do much resting. The restlessness of progress might easily be constructed to Alabama. Here violence where the people seek rest instead of being eager to do their share of the world's work. Such is not fair to Alabama. In no state is there less idleness, in no state is there more energy and progress."

"The New York World, in commenting upon legends and the way they grow up, with special reference to the Alabama 'Here We Rest' legend, says:

"Writing in the American Mercury, Sara Haardt tells how as a small girl at Montgomery she learned in the schools the meaning of the word Alabama. In the Indian language, she was told, it meant 'Here We Rest.' Later, however, various writers in the state showed that it meant nothing of the sort; that this translation of it had been imagined by a poet. What it really meant, they showed, was 'berry-pickers,' or possibly 'thicket-clearers.' Nevertheless, she says, school children in Alabama are still being taught that the name of their state means 'Here We Rest.'

The habit of misinformation is becoming 'official,'
even after it has been exploded, is a curious phenomenon about human knowledge. It is quite commonly known, for example, that the legend of the Liberty Bell being cracked from hard usage on July 4, 1776, is spurious. The fact, historians say, is that the Liberty Bell was never rung at all on that memorable day. Yet the legend is still disseminated. Well, we have a consolation. The legends make better stories than the true wisdom. Taken with a grain of salt they do no harm.

"If Alabama really means in the Indian language,
'Thicket Clearers,' then Alabamians should change the motto from 'Here We Rest' to one more appropriate, for we do not rest in Alabama so long as there is something to do that will make the state better and greater.

"Instead of being a place where the people rest, Alabama is a land of effort and achievement, of push and
progress."

The writer spoken of in the American Mercury says that she was told by school children that the motto of the state meant "Here We Rest," but that writer was misinformed, or rather misunderstood. Such a motto is not taught in the public schools, school teachers display the great seal of Alabama, the children see it in pictures in their text books and it becomes fixed in their minds, just as everything new fits into the minds of people eager to learn. It becomes mechanical with them, it has no particular meaning.

There is no fear to be felt that the people of the state of Alabama or the people outside of the state will interpret the legend as being any ways near true, for time and work has taught them differently. Alabamians know full well that to live in this state is to work in this state.
Outsiders certainly see enough of the chamber of commerce materials, the state arguments over the building of good roads, newspaper announcements of the coming of new industries, to satisfy them that the whole thing is meaningless. Whatever interpretation has been given the legend it is an easy matter to realize that the interpretation is entirely wrong.

Alabama in the last few years has taken great steps in advancement, from the lowest of the southern states in point of intellectual development, agricultural production, industrial expansion, Alabama has risen to the heights. The beauty of the whole thing is this, Alabama has only started on the road to leadership.

If we should believe that the motto itself meant anything, then a great many of us would likewise believe in the theory that because our grandfather happened to be a great man and had plenty of money, we should also live off the best of the land, we should prosper solely on account of the standing of grandad. We all know that this is not true, it is the vim and the will of personal endeavor that carries us along the pathway to the realization of fondest dreams. The toil of our forefathers can do nothing for us, except leave pleasant memories.

Let the motto mean what it may, Alabama is coming along in good shape—there is no cause to fear for the future—we have but to prepare for the increased activity in all lines which we know is coming at an early date.

dead 20,000 years, and found near the Lake of Callee, proves to the very learned Professor Arthur Keith, greatest authority on the origin of man, that the human race started in Europe, not in Asia.

THAT ancient Neanderthal relative of ours was about equal in brain size to modern man.

Professor Keith wonders whether he was able to use that big brain and remarks, which may interest you, that the ablest modern men do not use more than one-fifth of their brain capacity. Four-fifths lie fallow, waiting to be put to work.

IN JAPAN a flier from Moscow landed within forbidden territory near a Japanese fort. He was immediately locked up. A Frenchman was arrested for landing against his will in similar territory. Japan takes flying seriously. This country will also take flying seriously if fliers ever start from Asia in our direction.

FORD and his son, Edsel, heaven be praised, are both most deeply interested in flying.
The older Ford won't object to the statement that his son dragged him into it.

They are going to arrange a parade of twenty flying machines
across the country, inviting others to join. That will help to wake up the country.

The first of the Ford dirigibles
all-metal, able to stay out of doors
all the year round, if necessary, will be a welcome sight.

"PRESIDENT COOLIDGE will leave the coal situation for the present to congress and hopes there will be no profiteering in the meantime,"
so reads the dispatch.

That is a large hope, for in the meantime, many dealers will have raised the price fifty cents a ton.
With the people, panic-stricken,
pushing to buy, that means comfortably profiteering.

MOSCOW has learned that Germany is an educated nation, that its workmen are thinkers, and do not want smashing violence. In consequence Bolshevism has ordered its representatives in Germany, Berlin especially, to put on the soft pedal and talk less violently, to curry favor with German workmen.

Forty years of teaching by the Social Democratic party have taught Germany how to think. That's why they have a republic and will come out of the war's troubles a greater nation than ever.

THE world of finance is congratulating Mussolini and Italy's new finance minister Volpi, on the rise of the Italian lire, which went to twenty-five for a dollar yesterday.
Now the lire is worth one-fifth of what it was worth before the war, a wonderful achievement.

On the other hand, if the lire went back to its former value 19.3 cents, everybody in Italy's industry would be overwhelmed. Finance is a complicated science.

Probe Of Tragedy Impeded By Theft Of Parts Of Ship

I knew that we were going down and looked below. I could see that we were dropping fast. I made a blind leap for the scaling ladder that goes from the cat-walk to the top of the bag. Other men up and down the ship were climbing the ladders to get away from the dangerous bottom of the bag, for they all knew that when she struck, the tendency would be for the frame to buckle and kill anyone near.

"After we got to the top of the bag
we began a terribly difficult job of climbing over the outside of the frame tearing away portions of the cover to get a hand-grip and working out downward and around, underneath or barely underneath. Then we watched for our chance and jumped."

Wilson said his duty on the ship was to do clerical work and almost the minute he fell to the ground he ran into Lieutenant Boss who ordered him to start search for the control car. It was found quite a distance away in a little valley.

"It was a splintered wreck with man-ged bodies inside and lying around outside. Later we found Lieutenant Sheppard and Lieutenant Collinson, who had fallen separately, when the ship still was well in the air. There were no men in the two power cars
when they fell, so far as I know."

Advice to Girls

By Annie Laurie

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE: We are girls in our teens and are in love with two young men. What shall we do to gain their love? TAKE A GOOD LOOK AT YOURSELF. You are precious and you must be so. These young men, if you have tastes and interests in common with them, you cannot fail to win their regard. My dears, Chat gaily about the things which interest you. Invite them to visit you occasionally and accept their invitations—and your friendship will get a "good start."

Dear Annie Laurie: A few years ago a boy got into some trouble, I was his friend before this happened and still was afterward. When nearly everyone had nothing much to do with him, I went about with him as usual. Please understand that we were not sweethearts, but only honest-to-goodness friends or pals. I was talked about almost as much as he, but never once did I give up in an effort to help him to rise above the mistake he had made. I gave him the best advice I could and when he would become blue I was always ready to encourage and cheer him.

Now that he is able to stand on "his own feet" he has been very courteous to me, he has said some very unpleasant things about me and very seldom speaks to me. I am still friendly to him when the occasion arises. Would you ignore the way he does and the things he says or would you have a heart to heart talk with him? If he does not care to be as close a friend as he was, that suits me. All I want him to do is to respect me and be courteous to me. Do I not deserve this? Please don't forget that we were not sweethearts, I am older than he and was more like a sister than anything else.

UNAPPRECIATED.

My dear, you have evidently wasted time and effort on a worthless proposition. Surely had your friend been half a man he would have acted other than he has. The world is full of ungrateful people and it is best to let

Speculation Flies About As Time Of The World Series Draws Near; Senators Idle

Closing time is about to sound for the 1925 baseball activities and with the close comes the 1925 world series. Every fan has something to say of the chances of Washington and Philadelphia. Every fan seems to realize that the Pirates are already in the counting house, counting out the money.

Who will win if the Senators and Pirates tie up and why? The Senatorial leadership, guided by the youthful mind of Stanley Harris and the aged hands of veterans like Coveleskie, Johnson and Reuther, pitted against the fleet footed Buccaneer squad, a full lineup hitting above the 300 mark. The Pirate crew can hit in any league.

Somehow the fans give Washington the edge on the championship chase, should they finally win out in their continued turmoil with the Mackmen. Fans feel that Washington is not devoid of talent entirely upon a bulwark of homegrown hurling corps. The Washington team is likewise a club of Mr. Jangier's hitters. Rice, Goslin, and Turner-Peckinpaugh can all be depended upon land in the pinch. Tex Jeanes should see service in the title battles should the Senators come in ahead of the Macks.

The Southern league fight is likewise of great interest to fandom with New Orleans and Atlanta, battling for supremacy, the Chicks and Vols with only an outside show to win. New Orleans continues to bound the Crackers who stand in the leading position by virtue of a few small points. New Orleans has strengthened for the last minute drive and the battle should go far into the night of the 1925 season before a winner is picked to meet Jakey Atz, Fort Worth club, leaders of the Texas league.

All in all the 1925 baseball season has been a season of thrills. The collapse of the Giants being the only dark spot in the whole year. The Giants crashed at the last minute and allowed the Pirates to ride home without molestation. October will arouse the greatest interest in the national pastime seen in many years.

PANTHERS OPEN

(Associated Press)
BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Sept. 4.—Just sixteen days from today, the Birmingham-Southern Panthers will open their football season by bringing the cadet pigskin artists of Marion Institute to Munger Bowl for an appetizer. At least that is what the game is considered to be by local fans who keep in touch with the prospects of the various teams of the south. So far, no open predictions have been made from the Panther hilltop in regards to the first game of the season, and although the members of Southern are feeling rather pleased over the outlook of the season as a whole, they have not made any rash statements as to what the team will do. Marion always boasts a fighting team and it is the general conviction that the Cadets will give the Panther a nice battle. This is the first game between the two for some time.

Wherever happens in the Marion game, the Panthers are assured that they will receive quite a bit of attention on the next two Saturdays, when they are to meet Auburn and Alabama one after the other. The fact that these two games follow in quick succession after the opening of the season seems to point to a nice bit of labor for the Panthers. The heavy end of the schedule is undoubtedly coming right after the Marion game.

Last year the Panthers took the Auburn Tiger down quite a bit by holding the machine from the Plains to a one-touchdown victory. Auburn hadn't expected that the game would be so close, and as a result it is certain that the Tiger will take the field at Munger bowl with its head up. The game is due on September 26.

After the Panther and Tiger have settled their differences, the Panther will travel to Denny Field to meet the Crimson Tide of Alabama. This game is a new one on the schedule and the Panther knows that a hard struggle is ahead. At the present time, no Birmingham-Southern fans have predicted victory for the Gold and Black over the Crimson.

S. P. U., Mississippi College and Loyola follow in rapid succession after the Tide tilt. S. P. U. should furnish the Panther with a meal, if the teams run true to last year's results. The verdict then was about 20 points in favor of the Gold and Black. Mississippi College may show different results from the 13-0 defeat handed them last year. No definite dope is available from the camp of the Mississippians at the present time. The S. P. U. game will be played at Memphis on October 10th; Mississippi College at Munger Bowl on October 16th, and Loyola at New Orleans on October 24. Jacksonville Normal comes to Munger bowl on October 30, and critics say they should prove easy game. They are followed on the schedule by a game with Chattanooga at Gadsden on November 6th and a tilt with Millsaps at Jackson, Miss., on November 13.

COLONELS LOOK GOOD

(Associated Press)

PANVILLE, Ky., Sept. 4.—Centre's football team this fall will not be as experienced as that of last year but it is likely to be faster, flashier and more of a scoring machine. J. H. Biles, faculty chairman, said in commenting on the 1925 gridiron prospects of the Praying Colonels.

Centre lost many of its stars through graduation last spring and only nine letter men are available around whom R. L. Myers, head coach must build his team this month. However, Centre's followers are counting on last year's freshman eleven to add speed to this season's varsity.

On paper, Mr. Biles declared, Centre does not appear as strong as last year, because it will be necessary to develop new men, especially a center, a fullback and quarterback and a capable pair of ends.

In view of developing a new team, Centre schedule makers did not exact as hard and gruelling a schedule for its players this season as it has in recent years. Two inter-sectional games add color to what local followers have called a disappointing sort of games. One is with Michigan State, formerly known as the Michigan Aggies and the other with Georgetown University. Both contests will be played away from home.

Only four games are carded for Cheek Field here, a very abbreviated home schedule, while five contests will be fought out on foreign gridirons.

W. D. Skidmore, 21, who lives in Kentucky's mountain region at Harlan is the captain-elect. He has played tackle on the varsity two years and is a student in the college of Liberal lance, halfback. Opening practice will be held September 7 with thirty candidates reporting. W. P. Sheddian who starred at guard for Centre in 1921 and 1922 Arts.

The other letter men are McClure, end, Rabenstein, halfback; Wilson, halfback; Priest, guard; Bush, guard; Kagin, tackle; Hilker, tackle and Walwill be Coach Myers' chief assistant.

The schedule follows:
Oct. 3, Kentucky Wesleyan.
Oct. 10, Oglethorpe at Atlanta.
Oct. 17, Michigan State at Lansing.
Oct. 24, Western Kentucky Normal at Bowling Green.

Oct. 31, Kentucky.
Nov. 7, Tennessee.
Nov. 14, Georgetown at Washington D. C.
